The Moussea bridge has been carried away and the railroad and telegraph services have been stopped.

Along the Rhone, in the department of Vaucluset, Avignon and Caderusse streets are submerged and workshops and factories have been closed.

Now Watch Out.

Marie Hock's Death.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The autopsy upon the body of Marie Hock, the actress, who was supposed to have been poisoned through a chemist's error in compounding a prescription, failed to reveal any trace of poison. It is supposed that the powder administered by the physician had a different effect from what was intended, and hastened the patient's death.

ROME, Sept. 24.—A passenger train was derailed yesterday between Florence and Fiesole, and five persons were killed and twenty injured. Foreign Notes.

Mr. Rochefort declines to avail himself of the efforts of his friends in his behalf. He says he must refuse to submit himself to the power of a court, the legality of which he denies, and furthermore that he is certain that the court, no matter what evidence was offered, is too prejudiced to acquit him.

The Brazilian Episcopacy has published an energetic protest against the reforms which the Republican government proposes, aimed at the Catholic church. One result of this hostility, it is declared, will be the suppression of the Brazilian legation at the Vatican.

The German Socialists are divided with regard to the expediency of publicly celebrating the expiration of the Socialist law. The leaders of the party warn their followers of the danger of the arrogant display on that occasion.

Forty-eight seamen have been sent from Hamburg to Southampton to take the places of unionists. Trouble is expected when the men arrive, but if the movement is successful a general weeding out of union men will gradually take place.

BASE BALL CHANGES.

Louisville Will Play the Boston Brotherhood Club—Other Rumors.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 24.—It is announced here on the authority of a director of the Louisville club that in the event the Louisvilles win the American Association championship the world's series will be played with the Boston Brotherhood club, and not with the Brooklyn National League club. The local management has declined to enter into negotiations with President Byrne, of the Brooklyn League.

From the same source it is learned that the Louisville club will next season be a member of a twelve-club circuit composed of St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago, Cleveland and Columbus in the west, and Boston, Brooklyn, New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia in the east. The new league will grant protection to all minor league clubs without exacting tribute.

The Brotherhood Bait.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—President Stern, of the Cincinnatis, will be in Cincinnati Friday to arrange for the sale of his ball club. Mr. Stern said this morning that the Brotherhood offered $30,000 for the Cincinnatis.

He said he was willing to sell his share for $25,000, but Harry Stern will not sell for less than $35,000, as he paid more for his stock than Aaron. Mr. Stern says he will give the National League the preference if they make him the same offer.

Manager Sharsig, of the Athletics, and President Von der Ahe say that Stern goes back to the American association next season.

Tim Keefe, of the New York Brotherhood team, arrived in the city yesterday. Up to 2 o'clock he had not seen Stern.

TRADES' CONVENTION.

An Important Labor Assembly Being Held in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—National trades' district No. 226, Knights of Labor, composed of horse car employes of this city, Lynn, Chicago, Rochester, Buffalo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Albany, Omaha and other cities is holding its annual convention in this city.

Ever since the last tie-up in this city efforts have been made to reorganize the local assemblies, and the railroad companies have had spotters engaged to watch the men to find out what was being done. In consequence of this a very secret meeting was held Monday in an uptown hall, over which Master Workman James R. Magee presided. Delegates were present from the various cities, representing about 20,000 knights.

Master Workman Magee spoke of the attack made upon the order, and of how local assemblies in this city had been disrupted and men blacklisted. He advised that all business be transacted in the closest secrecy, as the railroad companies' agents were wideawake and were anxious to find out what they had done.

A committee was appointed on credentials, and reports were made from all parts of the country, showing that in some cities the organization was perfect. Officers will be elected to-day. The master workman will probably be selected from Chicago and the secretary from Lynn.

SHOT HIM DEAD.

A Newport, Ky., Man Murdered in Catlettsburg, Ky.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 24.—Last night between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock a fatal and mysterious shooting affray occurred in front of the Eureka hotel. At that house three men became engaged in a difficulty which resulted in the fatal shooting of one.

The ball entered the right breast just above the nipple. After firing the fatal shot the murderer fled, pursued by the city officials. At the western edge of the city he was overtaken and a fight ensued, in which the murderer was shot, but managed to elude the officers in the darkness. The city marshal received a bullet through his coat.

The third man was captured and proved to be an unknown tramp and gave his name as Thomas Brown, of Richmond, Va. The wounded man refused to give his name, preferring to die unknown, although he is supposed to be Thoms Carlisle, of Newport, Ky. The murderer is a club-footed man and a dangerous one. No cause can be assigned for the shooting, as neither of the men will talk.

Washington Dispatches

A Report Made to the Department of State.

THE RECENT FLOODS IN CHINA.

The United States Legation at Pekin Report to Washington That Several Million People Have Been Affected by the Recent Great Disaster—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The department of state has received a report from the United States Legation at Pekin, China, dated Aug. 21, in which it says that the floods in that province have been the most serious ever known. It is supposed that an area of 3,000 miles and a population of several million have been affected by the floods. Many people have been drowned, and many are refugees from their homes.

Lutae, which is a point on the railroad from Tonku to Tongshan, the railway embankment has been destroyed by the people for several miles. It was alleged that the embankment dammed up the water and flooded the country. Forcible possession from the embankment was cut in many places, the trains were stopped and the employes driven away.

It is supposed that the general in command at Lutae, connived at the positions which his soldiers largely took part. He has done nothing to prevent these lawless proceedings.

The Tongshan colliery is stopped, and 3,000 men are thrown out of employment and the operation of the railroad is, of course, suspended.

This destruction, the report says, was wanton and unnecessary for letting off the water. All these proceedings indicate an anti-railroad excitement which may result in postponing indefinitely any further railroad enterprises in China.

Senate and House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—In the senate yesterday the resolution to investigate the treatment of women and children in mills and factories, was referred to committee. Several unimportant measures were taken from the calendar and passed, and the court bill was further debated without action.

The house succeeded in getting a quorum, and the report of the elections committee, unseating Venable, of Virginia, and Elliott, of South Carolina, and seating in their places respectively Langston and Miller, both colored, were agreed to without discussion. The conference report on the deficiency bill was discussed but not disposed of.

Lattin, aged 78 years; Wilson Vandewater, aged 42, and the latter's wife, aged 40, all of Pleasant Valley, in this county, were yesterday instantly killed on the Central New England and Western railroad track. At the time the accident occurred they were seated in a two seated vehicle driven by Lattin. The wagon was struck by the Boston express, which was half an hour late. Lattin was thrown seventy feet and Vandewater and his wife were thrown still further. All three were instantly killed and their bodies horribly mangled. The horse was killed and the wagon demolished. Mr. Lattin leaves property estimated to be worth $[illegible].

A Shantyboat Battle.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 23.—Sunday night late a general fight occurred in which knives and pistols were used in a shantyboat anchored in the mouth of Sandy on Virginia point. The boat was used for gambling purposes, some ten or fifteen men, some very prominent in social and business circles, were engaged in the fracas. Four of the participants were badly wounded, two being in a dangerous condition. The news of the affray has just leaked out, being kept secret for fear of the officers. All were Kentucky parties, but the fight occurred on West Virginia soil.

She Does the First Shooting.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Samuel Goldberg was shot and fatally wounded last night by Millie Pankhurst, aged 22 years. The girl was engaged to Goldberg. The latter told Millie that his family and religion prevented his marriage to her in the regular way, but that he would marry her by contract. When she refused he threatened to kill both the girl and himself, and it is believed these threats incited her to shoot him.

The afternoon session was devoted to the reports of the various committees and election of officers.

A BIG CONFLAGRATION.

The City of Colon, Panama, Almost Entirely Destroyed.

COLON, Sept. 24.—Three-fourths of the city is in ashes. The fire began at midnight and raged until late in the morning, all efforts to check its ravages being futile. It finally died out for lack of material to attack, having reached the portion of the city where buildings were too far apart to facilitate the spread of the flames. The shipping at the docks was saved. Terrible scenes of disorder marked the progress of the conflagration. Crowds of rioters and plunderers roamed the streets. In dispersing these gangs the police found it necessary to fire upon them, and several persons were killed.

The fire was uncontrollable from the start, and swept with wonderful rapidity through the buildings in three directions, including the quarter devoted to private residences. Among the many public places and buildings destroyed are the postoffice and the steamship agencies. The guests in the hotels were panic-stricken, but all were enabled to escape. The total loss is estimated at $1,500,000. No lives were lost. It is believed the origin of the fire was accidental.

All the hotels on Front street and every business house of importance on that street were burned.

BOTH OLD EMPLOYES.

Facts Revealed by the Coroner's Inquest in the Reading Disaster.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Regarding the testimony elicited by the coroner's jury in the case of the victims of the Shoemakersville disaster, Assistant General Superintendent Bonzano, of the Reading railroad, made a statement as follows:

"Conductor Edward Ryan," he said, "is reported to have stated that previous to the accident he had made only two trips over the road. Ryan entered the service of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad on the main line on Nov. 14, 1889, and prior to that time had had considerable experience on other parts of the road. He has been running between Reading and Pottsville, and is familiar with that portion of the line. H. C. Kemp is said to have testified that he had been employed in the capacity of rear brakeman but one week. Kemp entered the service Aug. 12, 1884, and has been employed continuously since that time as brakeman, fireman and conductor on coal trains on the main line."

A DASTARDLY CRIME.

Bold Attempt to Murder and Rob an Old Lady.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—A dastardly attempt to murder and rob an old lady was made at 2 p. m. The victim was Mrs. George Cullom, aged 82, who resides with her husband and children at 150 West Eighth street.

At the time mentioned a young man appeared at the house and represented that he had been sent by Mr. Poorman, a son-in-law, for a bucket of coal. She admitted him.

A few minutes later she was dealt a terrific blow on the forehead with a club. Her screams attracted the attention of some workmen employed next door. When they went to her assistance the villain had fled.

Dr. Hall was called in and dressed Mrs. Cullom's wound. He expressed the opinion that she was not fatally hurt. The motive of the crime was undoubtedly robbery. The Culloms are large property holders and the old lady generally carried considerable money on her person.

Not Ready for Trial.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The case of Kiernan, the alleged train wrecker, was again adjourned yesterday until Saturday morning. Counsel for the defendant refused to go on with the case without an opportunity to cross-examine Superintendent Harrington, of the Central road, was held. General Coburn's certificate stating that Mr. Harrington was suffering from palpitation of the heart threatened inflammation of the bowels was produced, and the case was adjourned as stated.

HILLSBORO, O., Sept. 24. The Republican convention for the Eleventh congressional district met here yesterday morning, at the court house, and the convention was called to order by G. W. Hulich, who named the temporary organization, as follows: Chairman, Hon. Judge Collins, of Adams county; secretary, Mr. Newcome, of Adams county; assistant, Mr. Davidson.

The following committees were then announced: Committee on credentials, L. T. Darnell, G. Bambach, A. M. Hull, J. L. Wilson and John W. Gregg.

Committee on resolutions—John W. Hook, C. Baird, G. W. Hulich, T. A. Walker and Joseph Wilson.

Judge W. D. C. London, of Brown county, was then nominated by acclamation, no other name being presented.

The convention then adjourned.

In the Tenth District.

WASHINGTON C. H., Sept. 24.—The new Tenth district congressional convention is in session. All the old candidates are here with the addition of Fayette's duo—Pavey and Creamer—but the black walls of the rink looked down on many new faces in the delegation.

The two months' intermission in the struggle does not seem to have brought any light upon the situation, and the question, who will be our candidate? is as far from a solution as ever. The organization of the convention was delayed by the failure of the Fayette delegation to arrive. They were having a stormy time in caucus trying to decide what proportion of their votes to give to their respective candidates.

The informal ballots showed that Creamer had 12, Pavey 8, Hurst 8 and Little 1, with one delegate absent. It was finally decided to give Pavey 15 and Creamer 14 on the first ballot. The convention was called to order by Judge McIlvaine, who announced as temporary chairman Walter Weaver, of Clarke county, with John A. Moorman, of Ross, as secretary.

Following the selection of the standing committees, the convention took a recess until 1:30 o'clock.

The first ballot taken upon the reassembling of the convention was a secret ballot, and showed a slight gain for Wallace. Fayette and Greene counties scattered for some time.

On the sixty-eighth ballot Fayette county cast two ballots for Hon. H. M. Daugherty, and later on Clarke cast 62 for Worthington. Hon. John N. Vandeman received the solid votes of Clarke and Fayette, giving him 92 votes, the largest number thus far received by any name before the convention.

On the eighty-first ballot Fayette cast her 30 votes for Hon. John M. Wilson. On the eighty-second ballot Greene county gave 41 votes for Mr. Pearson, chairman of the Ross county delegation. On the eighty-fifth ballot Greene county gave Gen. Hurst 30 votes.

On the eighty-seventh ballot Clarke county gave 50 votes to Hon. Mills Gardner. On the eighty-eighth ballot Clinton county gave 36 votes to Leo Weltz, chairman of that delegation. Things went along in this way until the ninetieth ballot, when adjournment was taken.

State Wins in Canal Decision.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—In the common pleas court Tuesday Judge Pugh divided the question as to the constitutionality of that clause of the law creating the canal commission, which allows all suits for reclamation of land to be commenced in this Franklin county.

The argument advanced was that this gives the state a privilege not awarded individuals in bringing suits, and hereby it is unconstitutional. The court held differently, and the many suits to eject private individuals from occupancy from lands belonging to the canal system of the state will be filed in the courts of this county.

Arrested for Infanticide.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 24.—Miss Carrie Wheaton, aged 23, gave birth to a child in an outhouse and threw it in a vault where it died. John Palmer, a street car conductor, whom she charges is the father of the child, has been arrested. Miss Wheaton is dangerously ill and under officers' guard.

AN IRISH CONVENTION.

A Protest to Be Made Against the Course of the English Government.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—The leaders of the Irish party in this city are agitating the question of holding a general convention to protest against the course of the English government in arresting Dillon and O'Brien, and to awaken a fresh enthusiasm among the friends of Ireland in this country. Should this convention be held, it will be under the auspices of the Irish National League of America, and the place to be selected will most probably be Baltimore.

Whether the convention takes place or not depends altogether upon the wishes of Mr. Parnell and the Irish leaders on the other side of the water. While the members of the Irish National League here are very much in favor of holding a general convention at this time, they wish to act in harmony with Mr. Parnell and his friends, and are awaiting Mr. Parnell's decision.

The anticipated famine in Ireland, owing to the failure of the potato crop, is the primary reason for hurrying the convention. The potato is the mainstay of the Irish peasantry, and the failure of the crop means widespread starvation and generally wholesale evictions. Should an appeal be made to the league in America they wish to respond as nobly as they can, and on that account they are anxious to recruit their strength. A convention at this time would be just the thing to arouse new enthusiasm among the present members and to draw new members into the organization.

More Disasters to Trains Which Result in the Loss of Life.

NAMPA, Idaho, Sept. 24.—An accident occurred last night on the Oregon Short Line railroad, about three miles west of this place. Between Caldwell and Nampa a freight train broke in two and the freight train with the caboose ran down grade at a rapid rate. The night eastbound passenger train running at a high rate of speed crashed into the freight, reducing the caboose to splinters and ditching the freight cars.

Patrick Boyle, of Boise River, a passenger, was instantly killed. Kaiser, the engineer, was severely injured, and the fireman badly scalded. The passenger engine was badly damaged and the baggage car splintered. All the passengers were badly shaken up. The engineer of the passenger train says that there were no lights on the rear end of the caboose.

AN OLD FASHIONED LAW[illegible] FIGHT

Gen. Reuben Davis' Encounter with a Judge Who Had Fined Him.

In his new book, "Recollections of Mississippi," Gen. Reuben Davis gives the following account of a personal encounter he once had with a judge who had fined him for [illegible]:

My patience [illegible] myself in a perfect [illegible]. I had in my pocket a [illegible] knife with a long, thin blade. As I sprang to my feet I drew out this knife, opened it and threw it point foremost into the bar, looking steadily at the judge all the while. My object was to induce the judge to order me to jail and then to attack him on the bench. The knife vibrated, and the weight of the handle broke the blade near the handle. Gen. S. J. Gholson and several others ran upon the bench beside the judge, ordered the sheriff to adjourn the court and carried the judge out of the court room, while a number of persons seized me. Judge Howry being withdrawn, prudent men among my personal friends condemned my action and appealed to me to let the matter stop. I agreed to this. Intending to pass straight to my hotel, I saw Judge Howry come forward toward the place where I was standing. I awaited his approach and when close to me asked him if he had intended by his fine to insult me. He said "No." I then said I had been guilty of no offense to justify such an indignity and requested an explanation. He replied, "I do not, sir, explain my official conduct to any man."

In a moment I had slapped him on the face with my open hand. By some accident a claw hammer had been left on the floor near by; he seized this and struck at me violently, while I got from my pocket the broken knife and opened it. The blow of his hammer fell upon my head, cutting through my hat and several files of paper to the bone. I made another stroke at his jugular with the corner of my knife blade. This blow fell upon his jaw and I seized him with my left hand by the collar and pushed my head into his face. He struck again with the hammer, breaking and depressing the outer plate of my skull bone, but not until I had inflicted three more cuts upon his jaw. As we were pulled apart he gave me the third blow. I went to my room and sent the judge a message not to leave his room unarmed, as I would attack him on sight.

The court met again that evening. I had put on a fur cap, with the back part before, to conceal my wounds, and the judge wore his overcoat, with the collar well drawn up, to hide the tokens of combat on his person. I did not meet Judge Howry for seven years after this affair. I had gone to Pontotoc to attend the Federal court and was sitting in a room with Roger Barton and Chancellor Chalmers was sent for from below. He soon returned and said to me: "I suppose, Davis, you care nothing about that affair between you and Judge Howry?" I promptly replied that I thought nothing of it, that Howry was a gentleman, and that our difficulty was casual and without malice. Chalmers then said that Howry was below and would be glad to come up to Barton's room. He did so, and I met him at the door and we greeted each other in the most cordial manner. Until his death no two men could be more sincerely friendly than we continued to be. I shall always believe that he went down to his grave without finding out what led to our quarrel that day, and I am perfectly certain that I shall go down to mine in equal ignorance, unless he comes back to tell me.

Delights of Tobogganing.

You sit astride your toboggan, and when it begins to rush down the descent along a road as hard as iron, with the speed of light, your first feeling is that you would give everything you have in the world to be anywhere but where you are. There is, however, a wonderful fascination about rushing through the crisp, sharp air, taking corners cleverly by means of guiding pegs, and sailing down triumphantly on to the broad bosom of the lake. So many accidents had, however, taken place upon the lake run that we of the awkward squad were disposed to give it a wide berth. A snow storm altered, however, the complexion of affairs.

Two or three inches of snow on the hard, slippery track made the pace less rapid; and if, blinded by the snow and the monotonous whiteness above, below and around, you ran off the course, as I did, you and your sledge simply rolled over half a dozen times in the soft snow without the inconvenience of broken bones, much less of a broken neck. I cannot close this letter without alluding to the effect of this glorious out-of-doors life upon the nerves. I am fully persuaded that all the bromides in the world are incomparably inferior to a good draught of Engadine air.—Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

A Small Boy's Reasoning.

In a small city in western Wisconsin there is a small boy who lives with his parents. One day not long ago he and his mother were walking quietly down street when the little fellow noticed a number of young cattle grazing along the edge of the sidewalk. Said he: "Mamma, I wish Mr. Scandless would keep his 'calfers' off the street." His mother, thinking to correct his pronunciation, said: "Calves, Paul, not 'calfers.'" The boy looked at her a moment and replied: "No, mamma; I think I'm right in this matter. Ain't they half a cow and half a calf? I guess they are, and according to that they are 'calfers,'" said the boy, triumphantly.—Chicago Herald.

HE PREFERRED IT.

Why the Third Officer Rode Under the Car Seat.

Three brother officers were traveling from Umritsir to Lahore, where they had been playing polo during the afternoon. One of them, tired after the game, fell asleep on one of the seats. His railway ticket, which was sticking a little out of his pocket, was promptly annexed by one of the others and transferred to his own pocket. When nearing Lahore his brother officers awoke the sleeping youth, saying:

"Now, then, old man! Get up! Here we are!"

It was still broad daylight, and for some reason or other the train was pulled up some little way outside the station.

"All tickets ready, please!" shouted the ticket collector.

Two of our friends promptly found theirs, ready for the ticket collector when he should make his appearance. The third searched this pocket, that pocket, here, everywhere, but could find no ticket.

"Good gracious! where's my ticket?" he said. "I know I had one right enough when I started. You fellows saw me get it, didn't you?" he asked.

"Yes, you had it right enough," they said. "Where on earth can you have put it?"

"I don't know, bless me if I do," he replied in desperation.

"You'll have to pay the fare," said the others consolingly. "It's not much."

"But I haven't a cent with me," he returned. "Will you fellows lend me some dibs?"

Both said they were as high and dry as he was in regard to money.

"Tickets, please," said the collector at last, quite close to the carriage.

"What the dickens shall I do?" said the ticketless one.

"Oh! get under the seat," said the others; "quick! quick, man! here he comes."

Under the seat like a shot went the man without a ticket! When the ticket collector came to the door three tickets were handed up.

"You have given me three tickets, sir," he said; "but I see only two gentlemen; where is the third?"

"Oh! he's under the seat," they said with the greatest nonchalance, as if it were an ordinary every day affair.

"Under the seat!" echoed the ticket collector, in a tone of surprise, "what is he doing there?"

"Oh! he always travels under the seat," they said; "he prefers it!"—Tit-Bits.

Discouraging.

"I don't feel vewy much encouwaged about existence and that sohrt of thing," said Willie Wishington.

"What's the matter now?" asked his sympathizing friend.

"Why, I went to a barber yesterday and said, 'I want you to shave me.'"

"And what did he say?"

"He said 'certainly; dwop in any time you happen to need it.'"—Washington Post.

"That is indeed singular. Your people must have been exceptionally well brought up."

"No, I think not."

"Then you must be one of the most eloquent of men. What is the style of your preaching?"

"Oh, rather dry, I am compelled to admit. I do not possess the faculty of drawing an interesting illustration or of throwing out a bright idea."

"Well, well, I have never heard of anything so wonderful. And you tell me that no one ever gets up and goes out."

THE LAVA FLOW.

It found a valley young and fair
And virgin of regret;
That laughed away the amorous air,
Nor dreamed of love as yet.

It left a valley wan and old
And outcast of desire,
When through her maiden heart had rolled
Its passion flood of fire.

Her springs are dry; and dry between
Is all her flowery pass,
Save one wee strip of faithful green—
The friendship of the grass.

And black across her beauty's wreck—
Poor wreck, that may not die—
Lies dead the flame she could not check,
Nor can revivify.

So wan and writhen in despair,
So frozen black in stone,
They lie—the awful semblance there
Of lives that I have known.

A Useful Present.

Dr. S. V[illegible] of this city, received [illegible] present from a young lady who [illegible] restored from nervous invalidism. It was a cord of white oak chopped down and sawed up by her own hands, and sent as circumstantial evidence of the health she had gained by following [illegible] directions to live an open air life in the woods.—New York Telegram.

Under $1000 Bonds.

Joe Gaites was taken before 'Squire Abston Tuesday evening about 5 o'clock for a preliminary hearing on the charge of forgery, but waived examination as was expected. His bond was fixed at $1000 to appear before the grand jury of the October term of court, which sits on the 20th, and there is no question of an indictment, of course. The amount of the bond is higher than has been expected, and there has been no one as yet to furnish the required security. Although the young man intimated that he could furnish the bondsmen they are not forthcoming.

THE GRAND COUNCIL CLOSES ITS ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

The Grand Chapter in Its Seventy-Fourth Annual Convocation Today, with a Large Attendance Reception Tonight. Grand Representatives Highly Pleased with Their Reception.

The sixtieth annual assembly of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters was closed Tuesday evening, after a pleasant and profitable session. The attendance was excellent, for the Council, and showed a considerably revived interest in that branch of the Masonic order.

The election of grand officers resulted as follows: M. I. G. M., Graff Macklin, of Toledo, I. D. G. M., Edwin Morrell, Columbus, I. G. P. C., Lewis M. Lea, Sandusky; I. G. Treas., Sam'l B. Evans, Circleville; I. G. S., John D. Caldwell Cincinnati. The last named has served in this capacity for a number of years.

During the session of the grand body a dispensation was granted for a new council at Van Wert and a new council at Cambridge. A charter was granted to the council at Delphos, which has worked one year under a dispensation.

The matter of a revised constitution was brought before the body and a number of amendments offered. The entire constitution with the several features of amendment was then tabled until the next assembly of the grand body.

After the election of officers, the receiving and adoption of committees' and officers' reports, the Grand Council adjourned. In the evening, at Masonic Hall, there was an exemplification of R. and S. M. degree by officers of the grand lodge. The work was, of course, of a high and deeply interesting order. Following that the Super Excellent degree was conferred upon fifteen local candidates.

This ended the program for the Grand Council representatives, and those who were not delegates to the Chapter began to return home, all satisfied with the interest manifested in Cryptic Masonry and the way the Marion Companions received them. In this connection it is proper to give the resolution passed by the grand body unanimously.

Resolved, That the Most Illustrious Grand Council of Ohio return a vote of recognition of the zeal and enterprise of Cryptic Companions of Marion and in a marked degree the active aid rendered by Marion matrons and maids for their tasteful arrangement of the hall, also, our thanks are cordially returned to the Commissioners of Marion county and the officials of the building for use of the court room and convenient offices.

QUICKLY MARRIED.

The Marriage of a Green Camp Couple at 'Squire Abston's Office.

No little amusement was created just before noon today by the uneasiness of a fresh young couple from near Green Camp, who came to town to get married. The names of the parties were Reuben H. Cleveland, who is but 19 years of age, and Ella D. Arhood, who is one year the senior of the now proud groom. The couple was accompanied by another youthful pair, who acted in the capacities of bridesmaid and best man, the latter's duty being to find a justice of the peace to tie the nuptial knot. By the assistance of several persons the nervous couple was steered into 'Squire Abston's office, and in the meantime the news of the wedding had been whispered around, so that when the grave justice was confronted by the blushing and radiant couple the office was filled by a crowd of curious spectators. In less than a quarter of a minute the ceremony was completed, to the apparent relief of the contracting parties, and they left in the expectancy of the blisses of a full honeymoon.

Too Much.

John—Patience has ceased to be a virtue with me now; I refer to my neighbor Crusty's conduct.

Jack—He isn't a very neighborly sort of person, is he?

John—His conduct has become intolerable. He built a ten foot fence between his house and mine. I was willing to overlook that, but now he has increased the height of the fence to fifteen feet, and that I can't overlook.—Harper's Bazar.

Poor Old Lou!

Chicago Railroad Man—Been reducing rates from St. Louis to Texas and Mexico, I see.

St. Louis Railroad Man—Yes; we had to out of sheer compassion.

C. R. M.—Compassion? For whom, pray?

St. L. R. M.—Oh, there are so many poor wretches in St. Louis who are obliged to light out these days for a cooler climate.—Chicago Times.

He'd Take Anything.

Jones (reading)—The postoffice at Newport was robbed yesterday of $1,000 in postage stamps, presumably by a suspicious looking man, who afterward took a train for B[illegible].

Mrs. J. (confidentially)—Of course he's the one, for a man who would take a train wouldn't hesitate to take a few thousand dollars in postage stamps.—Washington Star.

Perfection in a Safe.

Two safe drummers were "spieling" their respective wares when one of them said: "Oh, your safe may be [illegible] proof and all [illegible], but let me tell you about our safe. We put a safe in a large commercial house, and one night a number of burglars bored into it and didn't get a dollar. What better safe do you want than that?"—Arkansaw Traveler.

There are many white soaps,

and remarkable qualities of the genuine.
Ask for Ivory Soap

insist upon having it.
